LIVELY DAY AT GRAVESEND

VARIOUS INCIDENTS CAUSE EXCITE-MENT AT THE TRACK.

TWO JOCKEYS THROWN-COADY SUSPENDED-

EQUINE GYMNASTICS AT THE POST. "The gates ajar" at Gravesend caused much exeltement yesterday afternoon. Stewards, jockeys, starter, trainers, owners, layers of odds, bettors and the spectators were in a sort of a Donnybrook Fair mood-anxious for somebody to tread on the talls of their coats. The stewards opened the circus by announcing that there was nothing in the running of The Winner worthy of investigation, which means that W. W. Wallace, his owner, leaves the East with a clean bill of health. Racegoers should not despair, however, as the stewards discovered a deep-dyed villain in the person of Coady, the jockey, who was suspended for riding a suspiciously weak finish on Buckwa. Coady is suspended for the rest of the meeting, and his case as referred to the Jockey Club.

Isaac Thompson has refused to continue his philanthropic course of furnishing money for the sure-thing" coterie, and has withdrawn from the ranks of the layers of odds for the present. Several unimportant layers of odds followed Thompson's example. Before the first race was called several acrimonious disputes took place between men who have been warm friends for several years. Everybody appeared to be cross and irritable, and sequently when the first race was called some fun began. Scarf Pin was the favorite, although Royal Rose pressed her close for the honor. Passer was warmly supported. When the field arrived at the post the starter's troubles began. The eight horses engaged headed themselves in all directions except the right one. A long delay ensued. Passover executed a Geisha side step, and Sloane anded in a sitting posture on the track so heavily that he remained there until he could find out re he was "at." Passover ran away some six furlongs, when he was caught and returned to the Starter Flynn talked to the jockeys like a Popu list from Colorado, and finally dropped the flag to a scattering start. Coady rode Scarf Pin abominably. Royal Rose raced behind the field until the stretch was reached, when Doggett, who rode her, suddenly realized that he was riding a race. and gave the Keene filly her head. Royal Rose ot to the front, and won easily by a length and a half from Passover, the latter beating Distinction by a head for the place.

A RACE FULL OF INCIDENTS.

The second race was full of incidents, accidents and other things "too numerous to mention." Riley Grannan backed Captive all over the ring, and his money made the horse a decided favorite in the Jefferson, Handspring, Ingomar and Cromwell were also well supported by the betters. A few fearless men placed some heavy wagers on Arapahoe to finish in the first three. At the post the jockeys behaved like imps, and did every except to try to get off in a fair start. At the end of twenty minutes the flag went down, with Crom well in the lead and the field strung out behind him. Some of the spectators hissed, while others applauded. Cromwell and Arapahoe led for fiv furlongs, when the former burst a blood vessel in his head and stopped as if shot. At the sight of so much gore, or from some other cause, O'Leary who was on the favorite, fell off, and consequently Arapahoe had no trouble in winning by nearly two lengths from Ingomar. Handspring was third.

lengths from Ingomar. Handspring was third.

E. J. Baidwin wore a gladsome smile when Arapahoe was led up to be sold. His smile faded when he saw John J. Hyland's icy eye fixed upon Arapahoe. In the dim and misty past, long before Hyland had trained a Futurity winner, the lucky man from California caused Hyland much anguish by biéding on a horse called Grenadler. Hyland's relentless memory recalled the harassing days and sleepless nights the bidding up of Grenadler caused him, and consequently he bid Arapahoe up $400 above the entered price and laughed at the discomfiture of Baldwin, who had forgotten that such a horse as Grenadler ver existed.

THE YOUTHFUL STAKES. race for the Youthful Stakes was the third the card. Cleophus was entered to be sold for $1,000, and was an even-money favorite. After ten minutes of twisting and turning at the post by the contestants the flag fell. Cleophus rushed to front and was never headed. George Rose was second and Tragedian third. Louis N. Thompson was on hand when Cleophus was led up to be sold, and so was J. M. Murphy, the owner of George Rose. Cleophus was bid up to $4.500, when M. F. Dwyer bid the necessary $5 to retain her. Much excitement ensued, as it was reported that somebody had claimed George Rose, and that a real selling race would be recorded. There was a hurry to and fro by interested persons, and no claims were made. Louis N. Thompson said after the race: "Selling races are little better than farces. Stake horses are entered at ridiculously low prices, and the owners of selling platers have no chance to win races. If horses were bid up to their full value, and racing men took advantage of the claiming clause, the sport would improve."

The stewards held a meeting after the third race and decided to restore the starting gates for today, as every race on the programme is a purse race. It was also decided that when the gate went up it meant a start, no matter who got left at the post. Any jockey that permits his horse to run through the gate is to be heavily fined, and we be unto the jockey who gets left at the post unless he can explain the reason satisfactorily to the officials.

Keenan with 110 pounds on his back, was the favorite for the fourth race, which was the best of the finish, when Keenan got up in time to win by a head. Deerslayer was third, five lengths away.

A DANCING EXHIBITION. was second and Tragedian third. Louis N. Thomp-

A DANCING EXHIBITION.

Preston and Ferrier were well behaved, but their jockeys could not resist the temptation to take part in the fun. Agitator danced the bolero before Tremargo, and the latter responded with the cachucha. Bonaparte, not to be outdone, coucheed all over the track. The spectators were so elated that they stamped their approval, in measured time, in the grandstand. Then all three of the equine stars gave an exhibition of high kicking and bucking that caused the starter to imagine that the backstrewth was an alley in Cairo. The exhibition assted an hour, when the flag dropped and put an end to the frolksome display. Preston led from post to finish. Agitator was second and Tremargo third.

It was nearly dark when the last race was called. The almanac was consulted, and it was found that the sun set at 5-38. The jockeys were informed that no nonsense would be permitted, owing to the limited time remaining before sundown. Then the jockeys showed plainly that they could control their horses if they wanted to. The horses formed in a line across the racetrack and got off to the best start of the day at the first breakaway. Dalgretti, a rank outsider at 15 to 1, ridden by Clayton, won by a length from Woodvine. Declare was third. Taral, Martin, Littlefield. Clayton and Sloan were fined $0 cach for misbehavior at the post in the fifth race. On the whole, it was one of the liveliest day's racing witnessed this year.

PARET DEFEATS CANDLER.

HE WINS THE CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE ORANGE LAWN TENNIS CLUB UNDER DEPRESSING CONDITIONS.

Orange, N. J., Sept. 22 (Special).—Despite the frequent showers here this afternoon the challenge match for the championship of the Orange Lawn Tennis Club was played on the club's courts at Mountain Station. J. Parmly Paret, who best orge Miles yesterday in the final round, was challenger for the title and trophy held by Duncan W. Candler, and he succeeded in winning the cup after a poorly played match of four sets. The ground was so slippery that it was difficult for the men to keep on their feet, and so soft that the balls bounded poorly. Under these conditions fast tennis was out of the question, and most of the play was confined to driving from the base line, net play being unprofitable. Paret lost the first set by trying to get up to the net to volley, but he contented himself with staying back after that, and took the next three sets in quick sucthat, and took the next three sets in quick succession. Candler was badly out of practice, and did not play particularly well.

The challenge match in doubles between Paret and Ward, the challengers, and Lyman and Griffin, the holders, will take place to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. To-day's score follows:

Championship singles, challenge round—J. Parmly Paret (challenger) beat Duncan W. Candler (holder), 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

STATEN ISLAND WOMEN'S TOURNAMENT The Staten Island Ladies' Tennis Club began its annual tennis tournament yesterday afternooon at Livingston. Staten Island, under unfavorable circumstances, the turf being so wet and soft from the recent rains that the players were disinclined to play. A large crowd had been attracted by the exceptionally strong entry list, which includes such players as Miss Moore, champion of the United States; Miss Juliette Atkinson, the ex-champion, who is now the Canadian champion; Miss Heli-wig, another ex-champion; Miss Robinson and Miss Strand.

Only one match was played, Miss Juliette Atkinson defeating her sister, Miss Kathleen Atkinson. The victor plays Miss Moore this afternoon, and an exciting contest is expected, since Miss Moore, after wresting the United States championship from Miss Atkinson at Philadelphia, lost to her in the Canadian tournament at Niagara-on-the Lake. The summary:
Ladies' singles, preliminary round—Miss Juliette P. Atkinson beat Miss Kathleen Atkinson, 6—3, 7—5.

THE NEW YORK ATHLETIC GAMES.

THE RELAY RACE STRUGGLE. Smith E. Alvord, the Southern sprinter, has entered the short distance contests in the New-York Athletic Club games next Saturday, Alvord de-

Three clubs will dispute the supremacy of the New-York Athletic Club champion team, which will be selected from such men as B. J. Wefers, C. H. Kiljatrick, H. S. Lyons, W. S. Hipple, K. F. McGrae and A. B. Dalby. With such a team, however, the New-York Athletic Club is practically invincible, and the main interest will centre in the contest for second place between the Athenian Athletic Club, of Philadelphia, and the New-Jersey Athletic Club. The struggle between these two will be for blood, as a similar contest on Saturday at Philadelphia, in which the New-Jersey team defeated the Athenians by a small margin, ended in a claim of foul and much bad feeling.

TO MEET THE AUSTRALIANS TO-DAY.

The New-Jersey A. C. have selected the team to play against the Australians at Bergen Point today and to-morrow as follows: H. C. Wright (captain), M. R. Cobb, F. F. Kelly, C. P. Hurditch, W. D. Hickle, F. C. Calder, J. Adam, J. Forbes, C. Beyers, H. C. Clarke and Tyers.

Considerable difference of opinion prevails over the selection of the man to fill the last place on the team, and many thought that Archie Gunn should have been included. The New-Jersey team have a stupendous task before them, although their eleven is by far the strongest that any single club could place in the field in New-York, and it is noped by the club that its representatives will be able to uphold the prestige of cricket in the metropoils. Play will start this morning at II o'clock, Luffmann, the professional cricketer of the Manhattan C. C., officiating as umpire.

Philadelphia, Sept. 22.—The committee of the Associated Cricket Clubs of Philadelphia which was chosen to select a team for the match to be played on the Belmont Club grounds against the Australians, beginning on Friday, to-day selected Australians, beginning on Friday, to-day selected the following eleven: G. S. Patterson, W. W. Noble, F. W. Ralston, H. I. Brown, E. W. Clark, Jr., and F. H. Bohlen, of the Germantown Cricket Club, J. B. King, C. Coates, Jr., and A. M. Wood, of the Belmont Cricket Club, J. A. Lester, Haverford College Cricket Club, and H. P. Bally, Merion Cricket Club, All of the above excepting Coates, Wood and Lester, played in the match against the Australians which was finished yesterday, Muir, Biddle and Cregar, who played in that match, are retired from the coming match.

DUTCHESS COUNTY FAIR OPENS.

Poughkeepsie, Sept. 22 (Special).—The Afty-fifth annual fair of the Dutchess County Agricultural Society opened at the Hudson River Driving Park Although the weather was threatening there was a large attendance. The large exhibi-tion hall is crowded with exhibits. The cattle and poultry shows are the largest seen since the or-ganization of the society in 1841. Among the feat-ures are Reginald W. Rives's handsome string of horses; Governor Levi P. Morton's cattle, and Jacob Ruppert's string of trotters. The trotting races were postponed until to-morrow on account of the weather.

The game was one-sided, and was devoid of special f atures, if one excepts the clever work done by the men from Boston. The home players were outpusyed at every point, and the Boston athletes had little trouble in winning the contest. Lewis pitched with telling effect throughout holding down the home batsmen to four hits. His support was perfect. Kennedy's curves were hit freely, and he was not backed up with much show of enthusiasm. A baseball season never before ended so dolefully in Brooklyn. The score: to witness the contest. The disagreeable weather is the winner of the gold medal given by the Golf Club to the man who made the best score in the preliminary rounds, while Quincy A. Shaw, Jr., who came out only one point behind him, gains the silver medal. As some of the men put it, "this was New-York against Boston, and New-York won."

Shaw made the best score in the two preliminary rounds this morning, but this afternoon he had had luck at the first hole, where he drove his ball into the woods, and again at the heart-breakers between the third and fourth holes, but he made up for this by his skill at the putting greens. ARRANGING WINTER AMUSEMENTS-THE DIS-QUALIFICATION OF BUTLER AT MANHATTAN BEACH-PARADE PRIZES TO BE bleycle, returned to the city on Monday after an enjoyable trip to Masachusetts. The party left the city by the Fall River boat on Friday and arrived in Boston Saturday morning. Boston they were the guests of Elliott Burris, who nerve to be qualified, if possible, to play to-morrow. is a member of the club. The party intended to wheel to Westboro on Saturday morning, but the wheel to Westboro on Saturday morning, but the rain compelled them to take to the train. At Westboro the party had an old-fashioned clambake, and then inspected the bicycle factory in that city. On Sunday morning they wheeled back to Boston. Breakfast was eaten at Auburndale. The wheelmen enjoyed a long ride over the so-cailed "sandpapered" roads about Boston, all took the boat back for this city on Sunday night. Among the party were Dr. Seneca D. Powell, John C. Gulick, H. V. Keep, H. P. Gibson, C. K. Alley, James S. Burdette, W. C. Peet, C. Schenck, J. Thomas, E. C. Carter, F. Vilmar, J. B. Yates, Theodore Burris, G. G. Snow and W. Helsen.

A party of about twenty-five members of the New-York Athletic Club, who are fond of the While near

The fact that the Quill Club Wheelmen of America have decided to hold their postponed races at the Waverly blcycle track near Newark, N. J., to-morrow has aroused considerable interest in cycling circles. The club's offer to admit to the ground free of charge all those who have grandstand tickets from the last Saturday's meet is considered an excellent one. The races to be run off to-morrow are a two-mile amateur handicap, the to-morrow are a two-mile amateur handleap, the finish of the invitation race, for which Johnson and Cooper are now eligible; a five-mile pace exhibition by "Jimmy" Michael, a five-mile metropolitan championship, and the one-mile record trial. Besides this there will be a one-mile professional handleap, entries for which may be sent before to-night to the Race Committee of the Quill Club Wheelmen, at No. 150 Nassau-st. Special trains will be run on the Pennsylvania Railroad to Waverly, and the track can also be reached by way of the trolley-ears from Newark and Jersey City. The track is being put in record-breaking condition, and it is confidently expected that Michael will lower the world's record for the paced five miles.

The various bicycle clubs and organizations are making arrangements for a lively indoor season for the coming winter. Bowling, billiards, whist and other tournaments will be held, and there will be any number of receptions and dances. Long Island Association of Cycling Clubs, the Metropolitan Association, and the Associated Cycling Clubs of New-Jersey are discussing a plan at present to make uniform rules to govern the championship bowling contests this winter. The plan is to have a sort of metropolitan district championship series between the winners of each association championship.

There is some talk of the Gilbert Wheelmen of Brooklyn being consolidated with the Brooklyn Bicycle Club. The majority of the members of the two clubs would be more than satisfied to have the consolidation take place. Many people are disposed to question the justice the decision of Referee Robinson when he dismalified Thomas Butler at Manhattan Beach last Saturday. Butler was thrown by Bald, and Bald Saturday. Butter was thrown by Baid, and Baid was disqualified. Then Butter was disqualified because he did not finish. As his wheel was broken in the collision he had nothing to finish on. It looks as if he ought to be allowed to ride in the final of the invitation race at Waverly to-morrow. The Iroquois Wheelmen of Jersey City Heights will formally open their new clubhouse, No. 231 Sherman-ave., near South-st., on Saturday evening, and a jolly time is promised. A musical programme has been arranged for the occasion. All unattached bicycle riders are cordially invited to call at the clubhouse at any time. The distribution of prizes won at the recent bi-

THAT WHERE ADMISSION IS CHARGED CLUBS MUST HAVE A LICENSE.

Chief Conlin on August 21 asked the Corporation Penal Code by Chapter 301 of the Laws of 1891, which took effect on September 1 last. The Chief wanted to satisfy himself as to the exact meaning of the law by which all boxing contests in public athletic clubs.

Acting Corporation Counsel Turner wrote an pinion on the subject on September 11, which has just been made public. Mr. Turner holds that egularly incorporated clubs can give public boxing regularly incorporated clubs can give public boxing shows, at which gloves weighing not less than five ounces are used. Under the opinion the police will stop all other public contests.

Chief Conlin said that the point he wanted most to learn was whether or not an association having an exhibition open to the public in general, and for which an admission fee was charged would not be compelled to secure a theatrical license under Section 1,98, of the Consolidation Act. The opinion of the Corporation Counsel states that under these circumstances it would be considered an "entertainment of the stage," and a license under Section 1,98 of the Consolidation Act would have to be secured. Copies of the opinion have been sent to all the precinct captains

DEATH HASTENED BY ASPHYXIATION.

MES FISCHER'S HUSBAND PAROLED IN THE CUSTODY OF HIS COUNSEL.

An inquest into the cause of the death of Mrs. Rosa Fischer, of No. 349 East Eighty-seventh-st. was held by Coroner Hoeber and a jury yesterday After brief consultation the jury rendered a verdict that death had resulted from heart disease and Bright's disease, but had been hastened by asphyxiation caused by illuminating gas which had been inhaled by the dead woman under unknown circumstances. The woman's husband, who had been arrested on suspicion of having caused his wife's leath, was paroled in custody of his counsel to awalt the action of the District-Attorney, to whom a transcript of the proceedings will be submitted. A mass of contradictory testimony was taken, mostly from inmates of the house in which Mrs that they had several times smelled the odor of ga that they had several times smelled the odor of gas apparently coming from the rooms occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Fischer, while others averred that they had never had such experience. It appeared however, that on the morning of the day of her death Mrs. Fischer had been using a gas stove for heating flatirons with which she was at work. Coroner's Physician O'Hanlon, who made an autopsy, testified that it showed the cause of death to have been in accordance with the verdict of the jury. His testimony was corroborated by Coroner's Physician Schultze, who was examined as an expert.

VALIDITY OF PATENTS IN DISPUTE BETWEEN THE BELL AND EDISON INTERESTS-THE DE-VELOPMENT OF SOUND-RECORDING.

graph, which has been pending for a number of years, came to a hearing last week before Judge Green, sitting in the United States Circuit Court, at Trenton. The hearing ran through the success Green listenel patiently to the hurrying words of as to facts which would have required a week for full discussion into a few hours. There were two suits the American Graphophone Company, a Washington corporation, being the plaintiff in both. The Edison Phonograph Works was the defendant in one case and the United States Phonograph Company in the other. The counsel in the case were Ric Howard W. Hayes, of Newark, who appeared for the defendants, and Philip Mauro, of Washington, who argued the case for the complainants. The suits in both cases were brought on two patents, dated May 4, 1886—one issued to Chichester A. Bell and Sumner Tainter and the other to Mr. Tainter for what is now known as the graphophone-and the claims which were involved cover the method of engraving the record of the sound waves in a cylinder or other tablet of waxlike composition.

THE GRAPHOPHONE

The graphophone was introduced to the public in Washington in 1886, and was brought out by these two patentees, the first of whom is a brother of Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephona After the graphophone was brought out, Mr. Edison, his original phonograph, brought out an improved phonograph, which was put upon the market. The apparently conflicting interests thus produced were afterward combined by Jesse K. Lippincott, of New. York, who paid large sums of money to the parties controlling the two sers of patents, and organized number of companies on a grand scale to introduce both the graphophone and the phonograph to the pub-lic. Lippincott subsequently failed and died, and a complicated tangle of litigation resulted, which was partially cleared up within a year by the combination of all of the phonographic interests in Mr. Edison's hands, he buying in the various bankrupt companies which Lippincott left behind him. The Graphophone Company, claiming that the failure of Lippincott left their patents to revert to them free and clear of any obligation, brought suit against the Edison Phonegraph Works and against various of the sub-companies, of which the United States Phonograph Com-

The phonograph company, under the manage-ment of Edward D. Easton, of Washington, its president, for a number of years has been prose-cuting alleged infringements of its patents, and the Edison interests, backed and controlled by that indomitable inventor, have been as vigorously defending themselves from all assaults, and the first grand battle, succeeding numerous smaller skirmishes, came off at Trenton last week, and the decision is now in Judge Green's hands.

The plaintiff's case as presented by Mr. Maure, briefly stated, is that Mr. Edison's work in the original phonograph was all in the line of indenting a record on tinfoil, and was merely useful for exhibition purposes and had no practical utility; that Messrs. Bell and Tainter, working in the Volta laboratory at Washington, discovered a per-fected method of forming a record by cutting, as distinguished from indenting, a groove in a warlike substance which should correspond to the sound waves; that this invention, resulting in the graphophone, was a practical and useful one, the foundation of the present phonograph art, and that the patentees are entitled, broadly, to a monopoly of all the methods of sound recording which cor sist in engraving or cutting the record in a material of waxlike or amorphous nature. He maintained that all rights granted to Mr. Lippincott terminated at his death, being in the nature of personal licenses, and that the graphophone company could sustain its patents against the world.

EDISON'S MARVELLOUS WORK.

Mr. Dver, who is Edison's personal counsel and has fought nearly all of that famous inventor's patents which have been sustained in the last ten years, presented the defendant's side of the case in a decidedly different light. He eloquently set out the origin and development of the practical phonograph by Mr. Edison, beginning with his widely known work in 1878, and dwelt at length on the numerous important improvements in the art which Mr. Edison had brought out since 1885, which, as he said, constituted all that was really valuable in the phonograph of to-day, as well as in the graphophone. He maintained that the graphophone of Messrs. Bell and Tainter was a commercial failure, and that if nothing more had valuable in the phonograph to to-tay, as wan as in the graphophone. He maintained that the graphophone of Messrs. Bell and Tainter was a commercial failure, and that if nothing more had been done, the phonograph would now be forgotten; that the waxlike compositions of the graphophone were utterly worthless, and that the present Edison cylinder of mineral soap was the important and necessary thing. He quoted from the testimony to show that Edison and others used the cutting or engraving method of making sound records long before the Bell and Tainter invention, and pointed out to the Court many details of construction which were necessary for success, and which were Mr. Edison's invention, embodied in the present instruments. He alleged that the graphophone of to-day, so far as it was a success, owed it to the Edison invention, which the Graphophone Company had adopted.

A second point of the defence was ably argued by Mr. Hayes, who took up the question of the contracts between the graphophone company. Mr. Lippincott and Mr. Lippincott various companies and the Edison Phonograph Works and ursed upon the court the view that these contracts, with the acts of the parties, constituted a license by estoppel—that is, that the graphophone company, in permitting Mr. Lippincott to make the contracts which he did with the Edison Phonograph Works and the Edison Works to make large investments with the understanding that they were to be permitted to manufacture, and consequently that the graphophone company was now estopped in equity and good conscience from attempting to ruin the business of the phonograph works and the sub-companies by trying to get an injunction against them under its patents. He cited the action of the United States Circuit Court in New-England, which, through Judge Carpenter, had rendered a decision for the New-England Phonograph Company to this effect upon substantially the same state of facts.

The courtroom was filled with specimens and models of phonographs and graphophones, beginning with one pond
